The Way a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) Can Impact the Life of a Child!

Court Appointed Special Advocate volunteers (CASAs) play a unique role in the lives of children and youth residing within the child welfare system. A CASA is charged by the court to serve as a member of a child's professional team and represent the best interests of that child or youth. The court system can be challenging to navigate and understand, and a CASA can help bridge that gap. Learn more about the role played by these community volunteers, and the unique contributions they make.
